Dear (b)(6) per FBI

See attached. I got this as a silly joke. When I can prove beyond a reasonable doubt that I am more qualified than 90 percent of new interns you have. As, you aware FBI just raided Trump home Mar-a-Largo and the rumor is on the streets due to lobbying with Trump and break up o (b)(6) per FBI th (b)(6) per FBI due to her contacts knew when they left the home and has contacts with them. In fact reason wh (b)(6) per FBI and (b)(6) per FBI got commuted sentence due to unauthorized practice of law.

In general terms $100, 9. I would bet long term that I would make a better intern/law clerk than those selected b (b)(6) per FBI but for some reason. Swooping to all time lows in calling volunteers dumb and stupid for exampl (b)(6) per FBI when it is known t (b)(6) per FBI and Sacramento Public Defender and Public Defender in LA that the auto insurance fraud division. While they prosecute so called strong cases on paper as of public record is known as "Scalpers" meaning in prosecutorial terms take advantage of the unwitting as knowingly and voluntary waivers with immigrants in plea agreement across the street. Which special agent (b)(6),(b)(7)(C) per FBI an (b)(6),(b)(7)(C) per FBI e can retrieve with proper request.

Now, I understand you are currently lobbying for reform. FBI may want to start with that office as to conviction integrity review considering the amount of times and licensed attorney (b)(6) per FBI whom would testify was sent across the street due to this logic on several cases because you did not know if they signed the waiver and understood it. Before the clerk inputted the information as handicap on grant monies you got indirectly from the public due strong case clearance levels. Defendant while maybe felon claimed several times bar numbe (b)(6) per FBI deliberately took advantage of plea deals in chop shop method as direct supervisor dating back before 2020 August. I understand that based o (b)(6) per FBI an (b)(6) per FBI laughing up a storm claiming I am not competent and stupid in her terms t (b)(6) per FBI and just an academic while she told me she was available outside the office for dating. For instance, pampering treatment such as five star restaurants and she wanted free and nails and feet done. "Oh an (b)(6) per FBI are you listening was she capping yes or no. "

Again, I understand the predicament you are in. I also understand that whil (b)(6) per FBI claimed privilege this is a matter of public record across the street of plea deals and people calling over his head because he took advantage of someone on record.

I have favourite term for you as like to pull interns to write your speeches and claim and give letter under slave labor rules of volunteering under 13 th Amendment with no employment rights in a union. Here is line fo (b)(6) per FBI "learn to lie, better!" as you aware CSIS and Langley and FBI have recertify every 5 years and I probably had higher clearances then them as security guard/investigator at Securitas. As, f (b)(6) per FBI whom works fo (b)(6) per FBI in response to claiming Canadians "I thought they lived igloos". Do you want to admit on record you had spy recruit in your offices and you gave him permission to download stuff on his account and then claimed b (b)(6) per FBI "but did you pay your taxes with pbis" when FBI knows it is free lance work and not steady.

Be advised, I would like to know from you whether this is a joke extension of insurance fraud division or you authorized this in error. I cannot control what the FBI leaks. I apologize as the cliché goes wit (b)(6) per FBI on Dow Jones and sued on record many times in every country. In recordings for viewers to watch claimed to people when agents do not want to put there name on it. It comes across my desk under first amendment and luckily the free press won the majority of those cases as default whistleblowers in Washington about Russia.

Thanks,

(b)(6) per FBI

There is implied threat sentiment of democratic party if you do not make this stick next incoming president election you could be tossed. The "or else" sentiment means while you hit mar a Largo they are hinting that something may happen as echoed democratic sentiment in statements. As, means something else is in the works as to policy. Mr Wray that would be technical threat towards your employment and Mr Garland based statements made impliedly what could happen moving forward as democratic lobbying. Play the clip if you do not believe me (b)(6) per FBI went to Columbia law school and I do not hear him making threats on TMZ.

Dear Director Wray an (b)(6),(b)(7)(C) per FBI,

This is how you brag post being involved with Trump and influencing a political decision via influence and unauthorized practice of law. You brag about how much money have due to being interconnected with branding to the point they are waving a sign saying "hit me with a raid, please. You can't prove I was involved Mar-a-Lago. Cause I drive a Bentley an (b)(6) per FBI "

Also, known as bragging that because FBI and AG Offices have not nailed us yet based on conduct from below link. I am going to rub in your face my riches from both projects reported to you while doing with smile on my face based on actions and words in link. Mr Wray you an (b)(6),(b)(7)(C) per FBI and Mr Garland want evidence connection of power branding when corrupting politicians and when the overall State Bar rules are not enforced. Here, is example bragging to TMZ what happens. When FBI does not raid fashion designer post connections to Mar-a-Lago and Trump. Dear Director Wray an (b)(6),(b)(7)(C) per FBI

See attached below link for future charges as it claims you never raided Clinton for recklessness also making accusations similar to Mar-a-Lago they were more reckless in NDI leakage and posed bigger threat. Be advised (b)(6) per FBI the fashion designer on the radar bragging already had met her for coffee. Again, while secret service may have been around they can only control certain things and should not be faulted for them to push brands as this is outside their ambit. Using security to make money both links show in marketing against contracts to beat the market.

Hence again waving signs "hit me with a raid. Until you do I will keep bragging" based on conduct in the overall content of the links. Be advised, the links are taunts to FBI and AG Offices. My understanding to talk about Nuclear Football in any sort way is breach security clearance but yet no charges laid.

May I please have access back to my InfraGard account. I am still locked out with no word yet when I will get back in. ?

Department of Justice

United States Attorney Cindy K. Chung
Western District of Pennsylvania

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE
MONDAY, AUGUST 15, 2022
WWW.JUSTICE.GOV/USAO/PAW

Man Arrested for Making Threats of Violence Against FBI

PITTSBURGH A Pennsylvania man has been arrested on charges of making threats of violence against FBI personnel.

Adam Bies, 46, of Mercer, was arrested late Friday in Mercer. He made his initial appearance in federal court today in Pittsburgh and remains in custody pending a detention hearing.

According to court documents, on or around August 11, the FBI National Threat Operations Section Social Media Exploitation team received a tip from MEMRI Domestic Terrorism Threat Monitor regarding Gab user “BlankFocus,” later identified as Bies, who allegedly posted violent threats towards the FBI and law enforcement stating: “My only goal is to kill more of them before I drop” and “If You Work For The FBI Then You Deserve To Die”.

According to court documents, on August 10, Bies allegedly wrote: “Every single piece of [expletive] who works for the FBI in any capacity, from the director down to the janitor who cleans their [expletive] toilets deserves to die. You’ve declared war on us and now it’s open season on YOU.”

In another post on August 10, Bies allegedly wrote: “HEY FEDS. We the people cannot WAIT to water the trees of liberty with your blood. I’ll be waiting for you to kick down my door.”

Bies is charged with is charged with influencing, impeding or retaliating against federal law enforcement officers. If convicted, he faces a maximum penalty of 10 years in prison. A federal district court judge will determine any sentence after considering the U.S. Sentencing Guidelines and other statutory factors.

U.S. Attorney Cindy K. Chung of the Western District of Pennsylvania, and Special Agent in Charge Mike Nordwall of the FBI’s Pittsburgh Field Office made the announcement.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Jeffrey Bengel is prosecuting the case.

The FBI’s Pittsburgh Field Office, North Country Violent Offender Task Force, Pennsylvania State Police and the Pennsylvania Office of Attorney General are investigating the case.

A criminal complaint is merely an allegation. All defendants are presumed innocent until proven guilty beyond a reasonable doubt in a court of law.

Jeff,

Please stand by. I need some new certificates for my presentation to Rep. Bennie Thompson, (D-MS), and his co-chair Rep. Liz Cheney, (R-WY).

Thank you for keeping the one I previously ordered on hold. I didn't know it was going to take this long to get scheduled in the J6 Committee.

But we are getting there.

I will cite the second certificate for you before Friday.

It will make a fool out of Kevin Costner's straw buyer.

Hey guys, guess what?

My written evidence is in the files that were taken out of Mar-a-Lago in the Donald Trump raid.

As you know Attorne (b) (6) Montana engaged in a criminal conspiracy to post my SF-86 on the Internet endangering my life and that of all of my contacts when I was gathering intelligence for the national security of the United States of America.

It means that I am going to get a criminal indictment so that the lawye (b) (6) Montana (b) (6) can be arrested and thrown in jail for the rest of his life.

If US Attorney General Merrick Garland doesn't indic (b) (6) but does indict Donald Trump under the Espionage Act it will prove he is selectively prosecuting Donald Trump and lettin (b) (6) who perpetrated far worse crimes go free.

Once the Liz Cheney vote was taken last night I also wrote True West.

I hope that my evidence can take out Dan Buck for good as well.

Dea (b) (6)

My name is (b) (6) and I am currently writing a biography of Ethel Place. (b) (6) introduced her to the Sundance Kid.

My grandfather (b) (6), was an attorney in Worland Wyoming, and he handled her estate and literary requests about her until his death in 1961.

In preparing my manuscript I have discovered some original papers on the arrest of Hiram Bebee in October 1945 for the murder he committed in Utah.

Bebee has been denounced as a fraud by Dan Buck and others, for claiming to be the Sundance Kid, and they are correct - he is a fraud. But at the time of the murder when he claimed to be the Sundance Kid a person in Sanpete County Utah contacted my grandfather because some of the material that Bebee cited to verify his claim that he was Sundance were only known to my grandfather. The person in Sanpete County wanted to know why Bebee was aware of the information.

Hiram Bebee was married at the time to a woman named Glame Hensley, and she was at first arrested with Bebee at the time of the murder. My grandfather was able to debunk Bebee's story almost immediately because the man in custody did not know anything about the real Ethel Place. The woman in Utah who wrote my grandfather at the time of the arrest, though, had certain concerns about Bebee's story because he knew personal details of my family, and there were only a few sources who knew those details. It was not Ethel Place.

Bebee tried to appeal his murder conviction, and in the appeal he gave away names and addresses that again lined up with true facts and some that were associated with my family.

My grandfather was able to track those back to the time that Bebee was in San Quentin under the name of George Hanlon. One of his cell mates was arrested for kiting a bad check, and it was signed on the name of a North Dakota farmer, whose family did, in fact, know the Sundance Kid before Ethel Place became his consort. They also knew my great grandfather who was a horse breeder and stage operator between Basin Wyoming and Thermopolis Wyoming, beginning in 1887. My great grandfather had several run-ins with Butch and Sundance.

My family are a line of devout Quakers who had been at odds with the Mormons in Utah and in the north central part of Wyoming dating back to 1847, starting with incidents in Davenport Iowa, and during the "Mormon War" in central Missouri in the 1840s.

In 1901 the Chief Justice of the Colorado Supreme Court was named William Henry Gabbert. He was also an officer of the San Miguel County Bank in Telluride when Butch Cassidy, Matt Warner, and Tom McCarty robbed it in 1889. (b) (6). He contacted my great grandmother, who knew Harvey Logan, with the proposal that she suggest a consort for both Sundance and Harvey Logan who would turn them into law enforcement.

In 1847 William Henry Gabbert lived in a house in Davenport Iowa that the Mormons passed by as they fled Nauvoo for the Great Salt Lake Valley. One of my great great grandfather (b) (6) first cousins was the jailer for Joseph Smith in Nauvoo. The house they lived in is currently on the National Register of Historic Places.

Matt Warner was in prison in Salt Lake for the murder of Dave Melton, in late 1899, and he also had an extradition order out on him for the robbery in Telluride signed b (b) (6)

Gabbert negotiated the pardon for Matt Warner in January 1900 on the promise that he reveal the location of a man named George Cassidy. At that time the family did not know the real identity of Butch Cassidy, because he had succeeded in disguising his real name while he was in the Wyoming Territorial Prison. We did not learn that Butch Cassidy was really Robert LeRoy Parker until Harvey Logan was arrested for the Wagner Montana train robbery, and Annie Rogers revealed some information that allowed us to track him.

The first senator of Utah after statehood in 1896 contacted William Henry Gabbert to arrange for the pardon of Butch Cassidy's brother, Daniel Sinclair Parker in Detroit, on Christmas Day 1897, and he asked Judge Gabbert to contact his friend Ida McKinley, which he did. Only after the assassination of William McKinley did it become clear that George Cassidy was Dan Parker's brother.

The information came to light from the consort that the family arranged for Harvey Logan at the same time that they set up Ethel Place with Sundance.

Hiram Bebee/George Hanlon knew some of those details.

I would like to write a short article (2500-3000 words) on this for TRUE WEST describing mostly the contemporaneous 1945 events but showing the connection to several events in 1901 related to the real person that was Hiram Bebee.

May I submit a manuscript and proposal to you on this suggestion?

Thank you,

Sincerely,

(b) (6)

Bandit Resurrections: Who Was the Real Sundance Kid?

Harry Alonzo Longabaugh, aka the Sundance Kid, and Ethel Place in 1901. Buck & Meadows collection

Last summer, Wyoming Governor Matt Mead received an odd present from an Arizona businessman named Jerry Nickle: a just-published book promoting the idea that the author's great-grandfather William Henry Long was none other than the Sundance Kid, of Butch and Sundance fame. Even more surprising than the book was its delivery. Nickle and his co-author had borrowed horses in Cheyenne and rode along the sidewalk to see the governor. <https://protect2.fireeye.com/v1/url?k=ebac6731-b4375fca-ebab43d4-ac1f6b0176a2-0da1ce1674c74454&q=1&e=0d17c1c6-a6f3-4a0b-a1f0->

Not only does Nickle claim that his great-grandfather Long was the famous Wild Bunch bandit he also maintains that he and Butch Cassidy were not killed in Bolivia, as many believe. Nickle believes that his great-grandfather did not commit suicide, as his family long thought, but was murdered by fellow Wild Bunch member Matt Warner after an argument about a book Warner had planned to write that might have exposed Long as Sundance. Nickle's enthusiasm is not dampened by the absence of any evidence linking his great-grandfather to the Wild Bunch, or any evidence that he had ever even claimed to be the famous outlaw. After DNA tests failed to establish a link between Long and the Sundance Kid's actual family, Nickle turned to a new theory: his great-grandfather had stolen the identity of Harry Longabaugh, the man Western historians actually consider to be the Sundance Kid. <https://protect2.fireeye.com/v1/url?k=bf276a4d-e0bc52b6-bf204ea8-ac1f6b0176a2-24b4c0e53a7d3fd1&q=1&e=0d17c1c6-a6f3-4a0b-a1f0-0805c95a0ed0&u=https%3A%2F%2Ftheappendix.net%2Fissues%2F2014%2F1%2Fbandit-resurrections-who-was-the-real-sundance-kid%23paragraph-2>

Welcome to the kaleidoscopic universe of Wild West history, where outlaws return from the dead with vampiric regularity. Long is by no means an anomaly, as bandit revivals are relatively common at least among the better known of the criminal class. While in some cases a dead outlaw's identity is attributed to another deceased person often by his ancestor in others it is assumed by a living person, an imposter. These resurrectionists are a mixed posse of pranksters, genealogy boffins, and conspiracy theorists who cannot accept that their bandit hero is dead. And they find a ready audience because, well, who can resist a good story from the campfire?

Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid were part of a loose-knit congeries of Rocky Mountain outlaws active at the turn of the last century, dubbed "the Wild Bunch" by the press. Although Butch and Sundance committed few crimes together in the United States, they are indelibly joined as an outlaw dyad in the public's imagination because they fled to South America together (Sundance took along his companion, Ethel Place), probably died together in Bolivia in 1908, and, most importantly, were immortalized together in George Roy Hill's 1969 movie, Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid. Making a major contribution to the deification were Paul Newman as Cassidy and Robert Redford as Sundance.

Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid (1969, 20th Century Fox)

Claiming to be Butch and/or Sundance (or any one of the many other famed bandits of the Wild West) has a long and storied tradition. William Henry Long, for example, is not the first man to have been volunteered as the Sundance Kid. In 1983, Connecticut high school principal Edward M. Kirby published The Rise and Fall of the Sundance Kid, which argued that criminal Hiram BeBee was Butch Cassidy's sidekick. BeBee died in a Utah prison in 1955 while serving a life sentence for the 1945 first-degree murder of a town marshal. As with Long, there was no evidence that BeBee had any connection to the Sundance Kid, save what Kirby said were unspecified alleged remarks of BeBee's that were never made public.

These hinted, covert identities are often absurd when laid against the reality. Aside from the lack of any link between BeBee and Sundance, there was a major physical disparity. BeBee was ugly and short, not quite five-foot-three, per a 1919 mug-shot card at San Quentin, where he had done time for rolling a drunk. Sundance was handsome and tall, upwards of six feet. BeBee looked like Jimmy Durante; Sundance indeed looked more like Robert Redford, his silver screen alter ego.

Sundance was not the only Wild Bunch member to have his identity stolen by a revivalist. In the 1920s, years after Butch Cassidy had expired in Bolivia, a Washington state machine-shop owner named William T. Phillips began visiting the outlaw's Wyoming haunts, searching for bandit treasure and dropping hints that he, Phillips, was the real deal. Some of Cassidy's old friends were taken in, others scoffed at the idea. Phillips wrote a memoir, "The Bandit Invincible," which he hoped to sell to Hollywood. The memoir was a hodge-podge of fact and fantasy, written more like a novella and told almost entirely in the third person, as if Phillips would barely allow himself to hint at his supposed identity as Cassidy.

Yet Phillips's con had legs. He died in 1937. More than three decades later, Larry Pointer, then a Bureau of Land Management staffer in Wyoming, came upon the tale, and after considerable additional research, persuaded the University of Oklahoma Press to publish In Search of Butch Cassidy, a sort of dual, or better put dueling, biography of Cassidy qua Phillips. <https://protect2.fireeye.com/v1/url?k=cd8e653d-92155dc6-cd8941d8-ac1f6b0176a2-d27631a7e49ec664&q=1&e=0d17c1c6-a6f3-4a0b-a1f0-0805c95a0ed0&u=https%3A%2F%2Ftheappendix.net%2Fissues%2F2014%2F1%2Fbandit-resurrections-who-was-the-real-sundance-kid%23paragraph-8>

The story was intriguing, because Cassidy vanished in 1908, presumably killed in Bolivia, and Phillips appeared on the scene in the United States in 1908, as if out of nowhere. But the larger possibility that Phillips was Cassidy couldn't pan out. In the late 1980s, when Anne Meadows and I began researching the story of Cassidy and Sundance in South America, we found that although Phillips had claimed that he had escaped the shootout in Bolivia and returned to the United States, getting married in Michigan in May 1908, the shootout had in fact happened in November, after his marriage.

The calendar is the researcher's best friend. As are maps: Phillips had located the bandits' Argentine ranch in the wrong part of Patagonia, had them holding up trains that were not yet built at the time they were in South America, and had them bivouacking for several days in a village in northern Argentina, Gaciayo, that turned out not to exist. Gaciayo is a fake cartographic entry, also known as a Mountweazel, designed to catch copyright violators competitors who poach maps. Phillips had been no closer to South America than the atlases he carelessly consulted.

Pointer wiggled around the marriage date problem by positing the idea that there were several Cassidys, before finally throwing in the towel when it turned out that Phillips was actually William T. Wilcox, a petty criminal who had been in prison with Cassidy in the 1890s.

Bandit resurrectionists eschew Occam's Razor. When faced with an inconvenient fact, they roll out a deus ex machina one after another if necessary until all contradictions are enveloped in an elaborate web of preposterous explanations.

"Brushy Bill" Roberts surfaced with his own bundle of contradictions in New Mexico in 1950, claiming to be Billy the Kid. He was chaperoned by a lawyer and wanted a pardon, though for what was not clear, as his crimes were seven decades old. The actual Billy had been shot dead in 1881 by Sheriff Pat Garrett.

Roberts talked a good game previously he had claimed to be Jesse James and he garnered more than a few supporters, including his hometown, Hico, Texas, which opened a "Billy the Kid Museum and Gift Shop." He had lots of press over the years. Reporters relish back-from-the-dead outlaw stories; they're fun to write and the readers lap them up. In modern lingo, they're clickbait.

Serious Billy the Kid historians do not give Roberts's tale any credence. The Roberts family's Bible reportedly lists his birth year as 1879, making him two years old when Billy was shot. He was an actual kid, but not Billy.

<https://protect2.fireeye.com/v1/url?k=db50e908-84cbd1f3-db57cde4-ac1f6b0176a2-ed045a8c73456a7&q=1&e=0d17c1c6-a6f3-4a0b-a1f0-0805c95a0ed0&u=https%3A%2F%2Ftheappendix.net%2Fimages%2Fissues%2F2%2F1%2Flarge-Buck4.jpg>

Wyoming State Penitentiary mugshot of Robert LeRoy Parker, AKA Butch Cassidy, 1894. Wyoming State Archives

Before Roberts came along, there was John Miller, who died in Arizona in 1937, more than half-a-century before his resurrection went public, stoked by Helen Airy's 1993 book, Whatever Happened to Billy the Kid. According to Airy, whatever happened was that Miller was the revered bad boy. Evidence in support of Miller's having been Billy included private comments he had reportedly made to that effect and the fact that he had buck teeth, as did Billy. (As did Bugs Bunny, come to think of it.)

Jesse James, however, was the true magnet for bandit resurrections. No matter that in 1882 the outlaw had been murdered in his own house, and that his wife and mother had buried him. Half a dozen men later either claimed to be the Missouri bandit or were shoved forward by their descendants.

J. Frank Dalton is the most well-known of the pack. His story was broadcast by an Oklahoma radio station in the late 1940s, and the next day, the Lawton Constitution headlined, "Jesse James is Alive in Lawton." At Dalton's first public appearance in town, some 30,000 people came out to gawk. He went on to a brief career he died in 1951 making personal appearances and working the carnival circuit, ending up at Meramec Caverns in Missouri, sharing the stage on one occasion with Billy the Kid hoaxer Brushy Bill Roberts.

Decades after the J. Frank Dalton controversy had faded away, Betty Dorsett Duke stepped up to announce that her great-grandfather, James Lafayette Courtney, was Jesse James, having escaped death in 1882 when another man was killed instead, and lived until 1943. Duke wrote, as seems to be obligatory, a book, The Truth About Jesse James, As Told by His Great-Granddaughter (2007). Over the course of 672 pages almost 200 pages longer than the outlaw's definitive biography, Jesse James: Last Rebel of the Civil War (2002), by T.J. Stiles she pelts the reader with arguments, among them that her great-grandfather hid gold coins around his property, and whenever anyone approached his farm house at night, he would douse the lights and lurk by the front door with a loaded pistol.

Among the inconvenient contradictions Duke skirts: Jesse James was of average height, 5' 7" or so, and Courtney was well over six feet. More importantly, Jesse James's wife was in the next room when he was murdered in 1882, and she buried him. Duke couldn't even win over her own family. Angry Courtney descendants launched a competing website to refute her claims.

It does not seem to matter if an outlaw dies a disputed and anonymous death, as in the case of Butch and Sundance, or in full view of his family, as with Jesse James. Doubts will linger, and sooner or later, pretenders appear. "To some extent," English historian Eric Hobsbawm wrote in Bandits (2000), the resurrection of the bandit:

expresses the wish that the people's champion cannot be defeated, the same sort of wish that produces the perennial myths of the good king and the good bandit who has not really died, but will come back one day to restore justice. Refusal to believe in the robber's death is a certain criterion of his 'nobility' ... For the bandit's defeat and death is the defeat of his people; and what is worse, of hope. Men can live without justice, and generally, must, but they cannot live without hope.

<https://protect2.fireeye.com/v1/url?k=8ed0f7f1-d14bcf0a-8ed7d314-ac1f6b0176a2-626585638bd0db25&q=1&e=0d17c1c6-a6f3-4a0b-a1f0-0805c95a0ed0&u=https%3A%2F%2Ftheappendix.net%2Fissues%2F2014%2F1%2Fbandit-resurrections-who-was-the-real-sundance-kid%23paragraph-22>

Hobsbawm might be overthinking it. It's just as likely that bandit revenants spring as much from yarning and pranking, American folkloric traditions that have given us Bigfoot and the jackalope, and from the longstanding attraction of conspiracy theories and genealogy.

North Carolina State University professor Richard W. Slatta examines the storytelling tradition in The Mythical West: An Encyclopedia of Legend, Lore, and Popular Culture (2001). "Myth is more powerful, pervasive, and alluring than history," Slatta writes. Accordingly, he focuses "on the plethora of legendary, mythical images, events, people, and places associated with the Old West and New." Pranking is likewise popular in the United States. Many urban legends start as a joke. Once launched, the joke billows into legend. The son of original Bigfoot proponent Ray Wallace, a northern California construction worker, told the press after his father died in 2002 that the whole thing had been an elaborate stunt, involving among other things, huge wooden feet used to create the forest giant's tracks. Nonetheless, the hunt for Bigfoot continues unabated.

Two of Butch Cassidy's brothers reportedly impersonated him for sport. One of his doppelgangers, William T. Phillips, took periodic leave of an unhappy marriage in Spokane to visit the outlaw's haunts in Wyoming and take up with a girlfriend. She confided after his death that the Cassidy burlesque was all a joke.

Conspiracy theories often underpin outlaw resurrection stories. J. Frank Dalton claimed that he the real Jesse James hid in a stable near his house while someone else was shot in his stead. Brushy Bill Roberts said that with Pat Garrett's connivance another man was killed in his place, allowing him the real Billy to escape to Mexico. Explanations for Butch and Sundance having survived the shootout in Bolivia range from changing clothes with dead soldiers to an outright refusal to believe that Bolivians could do what Americans could not, bring down two of the Old West's most well-known outlaws. In fact, most of the Wild Bunch members were captured or killed by American lawmen, and for their part, Bolivian soldiers and mine-camp posses caught most of the bandits operating in their country in the early 1900s. Banditry is an unforgiving occupation that provides little room for error.

The faked death phenomenon encompasses many historical figures, not just outlaws. Examples include Martin Bormann, Adolf Hitler, T.E. Lawrence, Pancho Villa, and Tupac Shakur. "One hesitates to believe [the Bormann] story," Christopher Isherwood wrote, "if only because it is a variant of the basic immortality legend which is often attached as a postscript to the apparent death of great or notorious men." A friend in Bariloche, Argentina, once showed me a map of the town cemetery indicating precisely where Hitler was buried. He asked me not to tell anyone. I haven't, until now.

Interest in genealogy, fueled by popular websites like Ancestry.com, has also played a role. James Lafayette Courtney and William Henry Long were both "discovered" by descendants poking around in their ancestral attics. The lack of any evidence linking the men to Jesse James or the Sundance Kid was a minor inconvenience. A staffer at the National Archives, which fields many genealogical queries, told me that people always want to find a famous person roosting in their family tree. The don't much care who it is, Joan of Arc or Jack the Ripper, just so long as they get bragging rights.

No excursion into the world of bandit revivals would be complete without mentioning Robin Hood, the fountainhead of bandit mythology. The idea of the good bandit, who robs the rich and gives to the poor, who saves the widow's farm, and whose death is unacceptable comes from Robin Hood, writes Stephen Knight in his Robin Hood: A Mythic Biography (2003). "The only modern film that has shown the hero's death," says Knight, "Robin and Marian (1976), is the only one to have lost money at the box office."

DC Bureau Chiefs –

The health and safety of law enforcement is a priority for the Justice Department. Recently, two law enforcement personnel began receiving threats after their identities were released by news organizations that published copies of unredacted search warrant materials.

We have seen reports about the possible release of certain video footage. If your organization receives closed circuit television footage of the August 8 court-authorized search at Mar-a-Lago, we would hope that it would only be provided in a format that obscures the faces and identifying information of law enforcement personnel. If not, we respectfully request that you take steps to obscure such information before airing the footage.

Many thanks,

Thanks for this, Anthony.

My suspicion is that the outlets who are not the five major networks will be the problem.

Dear Director Wray an (b)(6),(b)(7)(C) per FBI

As, empathy in the foxhole being that you are receiving threats from Republican Party. This threat uttered is echoed from Donald Trump based on conduct of the party. Hence for all intensive purposes they are threatening assassination of Mr Garland if you proceed further investigate Trump due to comm lines within the party. He claims "oh I was kidding" he is making federal death threats as lawyer on gun bills. I attached his wikipedia file to show how this can be seen as fraud to utter threats and then push public safety bills. It is also fraud to be on board of education claim to contributors that you meeting curriculum standards when you are making terroristic threats. DNI does not have to use Hezbollah for fictitious scenarios of terrorism use the Republican party currently as secret service is aware of. This is only going to intensify the more you go after Donald Trump this compounds and proves the elements of Mar-a-Lago that to relevance of wanting to overthrow the government via Capitol Hill riots. Be advised (b)(6) per FBI is boasting she is on a yacht and the CIA is having hard time finding some of the vessels tied to Russian sanctions. At, least the one on CNN claimed that. It is not very hard you just sit and monito (b)(6) per FBI and her social network. She is currently boasting she influenced a politician due to white house visit. Hence, all bets are off she associated with someone wilfully when she signed bar forms claiming as lawyer she would not overthrow the government or associate people. But yet no charges ever laid and FBI had yet to seize her bar account and link it to Mar-a-Lago relevance. She was pitching fashion design during riots correct to Trump people? Correct? Yes. She go (b)(6) per FBI an (b)(6) per FBI sentences commuted due to influence fro (b)(6) per FBI to have go free due to visit? Correct. ? Yes. Hence, this is going to continue such as that nail gun incident attack recently.

She is shoe-in for surveillance as to fashion design as she knows everybody hence would be of interest to the FBI moving forward. As, I am sure you already know she likes to brag about her brand and partnerships hence for all intensive purposes SAC MOY and SAC Jacobs would want to start finding out more information. It is extremely relevant and not just an opinion.

What you do not know from the article is the equivalent to him saying he is joking when clearly he is not. Is the equivalent t (b)(6) per FBI claiming on twitter when caught defaming people, using racial stereotypes and calling lawyers dumb apart of foid when buying chocolates then proceeding to write people up under student code as to fraud in the process. Claiming "oh those tweets where just misunderstood and I delete them" those are analogous to this guy on radio talk show. I did ask the InfraGard Nationa (b)(6) per FBI in chat box sent to you it is the radio talk shows that amping up the extremism as to apocalyptic doom. For exampl (b)(6) per FBI case off-shoot extremism whom is now bankrupt was mocking victims openly. This is relevant to most recent threat on Garland as radio extremism to overthrow the government.

There was people on the flight to Redding from LAX bible orthodox claiming the end of the world was coming because of the Trump raid. Big bible push here and some would be willing to carry out acts if they believe Trump is persecuted further by Garland.

Dear Director Wray an (b)(6),(b)(7)(C) per FBI,

You remember check I sent you from Barbri to help your case with Mar-a-Lago as to connections o (b)(6) per F an (b)(6) per FBI lobbying Trump as unauthorized practice of law. As in i.e. usin (b)(6) per FBI to influence politician that deposited into JP Morgan? That JP Morgan account now would have double hit of relevance due to them wanting loan money back from auction despite your POTUS sanctions. Which technically speaking should not go back to JP if they where the money outburst in the first place. It was seized correct? How come they get money back for bad behaviour? It defeats logic.

Be advised, over. If JP Morgan took money from Barbr (b)(6) per FBI and knew she was going to do this and assumed the risk wit (b)(6) per FBI this confirm other relevance as to Trump Mar-a-Lago search. A Special Note for Dear Fellow Americans:

My name is (b) (6) a retired California Correctional Officer from Los Angeles.

I am informing you of a short notice regarding the FBI's raid of President Trump's home at Mar- a-Lago on August 8.

I have credible and convincing evidence that the DOJ & FBI's raid of President Trump's home was a political conspiracy aiming to achieve two objectives before the mid-term election in Nov.

1. To destroy President Donald Trump.
2. To help California Governor Gavin Newsom & the FBI cover up their involvement in downing of the Lakers Legend Kobe Bryant's helicopter on 01/26/2020, killing all nine people aboard including Kobe and his daughter. The incident was a death threat against my brother because I am a material witness to their gruesome crimes. They have to destroy me or discredit me quickly.

The American people have to know the whole truth of this raid quickly in order to protect our freedom and democracy.

Sincerely,

(b) (6)

Subject: The FBI Raid of President Trump's House was abused for Political Purposes

My Dear Fellow Americans:

My name is (b) (6) from Los Angeles. I am a retired CA Correctional Officer from Los Angeles. I have credible information to prove that the DOJ and FBI raid of President Trump's house on 08/08/2022 was abused for two political objectives before the midterm election in Nov:

1ST. to destroy President Trump and to hurt Republicans who are supportive of President Trump.

2ND. to help the FBI and California Governor Gavin Newsom cover up their involvement in downing of Lakers legend Kobe Bryant's helicopters in California on 01/26/2020, which killed 9 people aboard including Kobe and his daughter (the FBI and Newsom administration used a DF chemical laser weapon from a drone to attack the pilot's head which caused the crash). The incident was a death threat against my brother because I am a material witness to their crimes. So the FBI and Newsom administration have to find a way to discredit me or destroy me.

Back in late March, the Los Angeles FBI, CA Highway Patrol, Los Angeles Police Department and Los Angeles Sheriff Department, hereafter refer them as JTTF (Joint Terrorism Task Force), had used a DF chemical laser weapon to attack me repeatedly indoor and outdoor. I then was transported to County USC hospital by an ambulance to conduct four surgeries to remove the infectious fluid (generated by the chemical laser attacks) from my right shoulder, right mid-finger, lower back and spinal cord (near the back of my neck & throat areas). The laser attack was a retaliatory act against me for informing the Congress and the media about their multiple crimes.

During the treatment at USC, the drone and the DF chemical laser attacks had continued daily, and I am unable to report those laser attacks to the nurses and the doctors because the laser beam was invisible and the drone flew very high above the hospital; in addition, those laser attacks did not leave any physical injury mark on my body because it attacked the nerve cells of my body and it was very painful. But the chemical laser attacks had deposited substantial amounts of DF chemical laser residues in my blood, bones and the ceilings of my room at the USC hospital. On April 22, I was transferred to MacLay Healthcare Center for physical rehab, and the secret drone and laser attacks had continued day and night daily.

On 08/08/2022, at about 1 am (PDT), the JTTF used a DF chemical laser weapon with a very strong force to attack me repeatedly at MacLay, which forced me to call and inform several reporters about the laser attack (ABC news, CBS news, NBC news, CNN, Washington Post and NY times). About five hours after my calls, the DOJ and FBI raided President Trump's house at Mar-a-Lago. Also, there were three MacLay employees who harassed me at the facility as a part of JTTF's plot. On 08/09/2022, the JTTF again, used a DF chemical laser weapon to attack me for several hours attempting to push me to call those reporters again to claim that the raid of Trump's house was used to distract the media from my phone calls which I made to them five hours before the raid. They wanted me to discredit myself because no one would believe my story. On 08/11/2022, I was discharged from MacLay and moved to a private House (b) (6) Los Angeles county. The JTTF's Laser attack has continued. Please be advised, there were several other harassment incidents which were used to discredit me.

The pain and suffering, which I have been subjected to from the said condition, have exceeded far beyond a normal citizen's endurance in a civilized society, and I have reported my case to Attorney General Merrick Garland twice, but so far, he has not responded to my requests yet.

I believe the American people have to know the whole truth and take action quickly to safeguard our freedom and democracy. Thank you.

Sincerely,

(b) (6)
